

A blank template for a dichotomous key. It features a central vertical line that branches out into two main paths. Each path consists of three horizontal lines for labeling, and each of these leads to two more horizontal lines for descriptions, creating a total of 12 terminal points for classification.