The pedigree chart is a horizontal tree diagram. It features two main vertical lines on the left side, each representing a primary lineage. From each of these lines, a horizontal line extends to the right, which then splits into two diagonal lines. These diagonal lines lead to two more horizontal lines, creating a second level of branching. This pattern repeats, with each of the four horizontal lines from the second level splitting into two diagonal lines that lead to a final level of four horizontal lines on the right. The chart is designed to record the ancestry of a dog, with the leftmost lines representing the parents and subsequent levels representing grandparents, great-grandparents, and so on. The chart is set against a background of a repeating pattern of interlocking circles.
