

German Shorthaired Pointer
MaleA blank template for a dichotomous key. It features a central vertical line that splits into two main branches. Each branch leads to a series of three horizontal lines for labeling and a final line for the organism name. The lines are black on a white background.