

Wirehaired Pointing Griffon
Male

A blank template for a dichotomous key. It features a central vertical line that splits into two main branches. Each branch leads to a series of three horizontal lines for labeling, and each of these leads to a series of three horizontal lines for descriptions, creating a total of 12 terminal points for classification.